

“We've recently used the inter-linkable LED lights from GreenBrook on a kitchen project for one of our customers in Haywards Heath and thought they were a really innovative and different product with lots of potential uses. These LEDs are robust and easy to install as all the breakable parts such as the individual LEDs are enclosed in the outer tube, which acts as a protector and keeps the fitting rigid when you're installing it. We love that it's so simple to fit and that there are colour options: warm white is ideal for kitchens and cool white is perfect for display units.”
